

Game Recap

It's The Day After

It's the day after -

And the pain of a loss still lingers. A season that ended too soon has left me grasping for positives so my spirit may once again be lifted.

It's the day after -

And it seems that all of my hard work in practice amounted to little. And it feels like my game-time effort amounted to even less.

It's the day after -

And in time I'm told that things will come back into perspective and priorities will again be set straight.

It's the day after -

And there has been no mention that the program will be shut down and football never again played at South Point.

It's the day after -

And supporters are wearing Red. The faithful are proudly displaying the name of South Point.

It's the day after -

And I am being reminded that I have been a part of something very special. I am counted among a group that has fought to maintain something for which the community is very proud.

It's the day after -

And the teammates that went to battle with me are still my teammates. The love we shared is not lost. We will be forever connected. And we will always be appreciated for the heart and courage we showed.

It's the day after -

And somehow it's beginning to feel like the season did not end. Rather it seems that the season never ends for South Point Football. The pride and tradition roll on.

It's the day after –

And I can hold my head up high and proudly claim that I am a Red Raider!

There can be nothing said of this year's group of Red Raiders that is short of acknowledging an outstanding effort. The dedication to the program was always evident and their love for one another was openly expressed in the way they fought for one another on the field. As with most South Point football squads, this team continued the proud tradition. And they raised the bar for future players with their work ethic and determination to improve, and play, above their skill. Seniors Cooper Bostwick, Xarique Culbreath, Christian Graves, Ashton Harris, Ryan Harris, Matt Hastings, Matthew Laney, Ben Lunsford, Dylan Nicks, Joseph O'Neil, Jacob Patterson, Tyson Riley, Ethan Thagard, Wyatt Triplett, and Shane Wilson contributed to the team's success, both in practice and on the field, enabling the Raiders deep playoff run. These Seniors led by example to ensure that the proud tradition of South Point continues. We are grateful to them and number them among the elite group that has represented South Point on the gridiron over the years. We are honored that they have, and will, continue to wear Red, with Pride!

Go Get 'Em, Red!
